

National Park Service Mid-Level Intake Program

A Management Development Opportunity

Come Join Us

The Mid-Level Intake Program is a management development opportunity for a diverse group of dynamic, energetic and achievement-oriented individuals interested in a career in the National Park Service. Can you see yourself dedicated to the preservation and management of this country's outstanding natural, historical, and recreational resources? Does the opportunity to pursue a public service career hold special meaning for you? Are you interested in leading change collaboratively with others to achieve real results? If your answer to these questions is yes, then the Mid-Level Intake Program may be an excellent choice for you. Recruitment will begin in the fall of 2003. Previous supervisory experience is required.

About the Program

Offering a 2-year training and development program and promotion potential for all participants, Mid-Level Intake trainees experience a wide variety of learning experiences in pursuit of their leadership competencies. Detail assignments, internet-based coaching, formalized classroom settings, and professional study all complement the goals identified in each trainee's individual development plan. You learn while doing; participants implement what they learn in their on-going job responsibilities. The Mid-Level Intake Program fosters career growth targeted to achieve tangible results.
